Discussion

- Should we have core beliefs and core values for DCSD? Most districts have either core beliefs or core values, but we saw examples of districts that have both.
- If we have both, should we stick with the current core beliefs or brainstorm some additional options?

Vision

Vision

Describes what the district hopes to achieve or be in the future.

Sample Vision Statements

“Making the best possible ice cream, in the nicest possible way.”

-Ben & Jerry’s

“To organize the world’s information and make it universally accessible and useful.”

-Google

“To make people happy.”

-Disney

“To develop leaders who will one day make a global difference.”

-Harvard

“We will help people live longer, healthier, happier lives.”

-CVS

“To reduce human trauma and economic costs associated with automobile accidents.”

-Progressive

Key Ingredients of a Vision

1 – The output

When you define what you do as an outcome, you start to transform your product or service into a benefit. Vision statements that talk about benefits are far more inspiring than those that talk about the service or product itself.

2 – The twist

Your vision statement needs a unique selling point. This is a key ingredient in helping you bring focus and inspiration to your vision.

3 – The quantification

With no possible end in sight (or a totally unrealistic one), the initial inspiration derived from a great vision can turn to frustration. Give yourself a goal to assess progress against but it doesn't have to be numeric.

4 – The human connection

Include something that makes people conjure a specific mental image when they read your vision statement.

Sample Vision with Key Ingredients

1 – The output

2 – The twist

3 – The quantification

4 – The human connection

Producing and selling locally sourced cakes and pies that are so delicious and satisfying that every customer who leaves our store does so with a smile.
